It is with great pleasure that I write these words of recommendation for Alternative Office Services and more importantly Ron Mespelt, the owner.

Let me give you a quick glance at my history so as to qualify my comments:

- A Salvation Army Officer, in charge of all Army facilities and programs in the communities that I served
- Chamber of Commerce CEO for Caldwell, Idaho
- Christian School Administrator for two large K – 12 schools
- Administrator for a Camp and Conference Center
- Owner of a Heating and Cooling company

After retiring, I entered a consulting work agreement with Nampa Christian Schools. The school built a new high school facility. It was my responsibility to detail what furniture and fixtures were needed for the entire new campus, secure competitive bids, order and oversee the purchasing of all furniture and fixtures and supervise the installation of these items at the new high school campus.

It was with this responsibility that I came into contact with Ron and his company AOS. AOS preformed two tasks for us, first, they installed office furniture that was donated to the school, which was significant and secondly, they installed all new furniture and fixtures purchased. This includes items such as student and gym lockers to dry erase boards, science lab stations to ceiling projectors, student desks and chairs to office furniture, they did it all! And the bottom line of it all is that they meet the scheduling deadlines and preformed their tasks with outstanding professionalism and care. I could site the number of times they went the “extra mile” to help the installation go smoothly without complaint but with the attitude “what’s best for the customer”. They are “team” players.

Ron and his workers are the best! I can’t recommend them highly enough but to say I wouldn’t consider partnering with anyone else.

Sincerely,
Ken Winkelman
